NOT MORE TAXING BUT MORE SAVING NEEDED

COLLOWING the recent White House statement that President Roosevelt wants to hold down government expenses above everything else in the world. and consequently taxes, his second thoughts on the subject are dread. He imagines what they bound to be a bit disturbing to the country.

It is now indicated that a special tax is being considered be laughed at or respected, whether to cover additional defense expenditures, which may amount to worthy fellow $500,000,000. This increased outlay has been fully expected, and the measures to expand the Navy and bring the Army up shave, which he may take clandesto complete peacetime strength have been generally approved.

ARGENTINA GIVES US THE COLD SHOULDER

Argentina's announcement that she will confine future purchases, down against many or us some so far as possible, to those from Great Britain and France raises the question what is to become of that proposed trade agreement with the United States.

The proposed compact with Argentina was hailed as America's "Julia is almost as big as her answer to the tricky methods pursued by Germany and Italy in their mother efforts to destroy our trade with that country. ## The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

WORRIES OF ADOLESCENT NOT FOOLISH

You and I are wont to think that only grown-ups have worries We little realize how many worries our adolescent children have. But they do have many worries, some of which are known to none but themselves. Blessed is the parent or teacher who inspires such confidence in a youth as to make him ready to unload any of his troubles. If, however, the average adolescent were to tell us of the things that troubled him most, he probably would not be understood. He does not risk telling us, as a rule. He thinks or knows that we would smile or laugh at him, and would take the attitude that we should not be so foolish.

Nevertheless, to him it is not a matter of being foolish or not being oolish: it is just a matter of being. The things which worry him do worry him, no matter what we adults think about it, or how we act

The thing of most concern to the average adolescent is approval by his set, perhaps by one or two of his age. This approval he cherishes Of their disapproval he is in great might think of him or say about him. He wonders whether he will he will be snubbed or accepted as a

Some of our citizens have been able to secure temporary employment during the present "give-ajob" campaign, and others have secured jobs that may be permanent. One man of around fifty who has been out seeking work, tells Pa Newc that he has been turned down at a number of places on account of his age. Many men at that age can do as much work as ever, but youth seems to have the call.

In these days of clubs and bridge parties, a pressing need in many homes is someone to look after the baby or children, while mother goes out to speechify or cop a prize. Up in Pittsburgh a bright high school enior has recognized this pressing need and has organized a 'Baby She's now employing twenty of her friends. The charge is fifty cents until midnight for

CHILDREN NOW RAISE SHEEP TO MEET WAR DEMANDS

With sheep in heavy demand due to the European war, farmers of northwestern Illinois' prairies find raising sheep a profitable business. Many children are now engaged in their hours away from school in raising their own lambs. Pictured above with

NAVY BUILDS GIGANTIC SHIP TESTING BASIN IN EAST

The United States navy's new $3,500,000 testing basin at Carderock, Md., is shown in airview above. The basin will be used to test models of new type vessels for the navy and merchant marine. The long building houses two channels of water, each approximately 1,200 feet long with & turning basin at one end. The test basin will replace the one now in use in Washington

This aerial view of the Standard Oil tanker J. A. Mowinckel shows the fifty-foot hole (left of stack) which was torn in her deck by a mysterious blast as she lay at dock in Bayonne, N. J. The 11.147-ton vessel recently had been transferred to Panamanian registry so she could deliver oil to warring Europe despite the neutrality law, which bars U. S. ships from the combat zone.

Retired for Duration of the War

With the Statue of Liberty discernible in the background, the Ile de France, of the French Line, makes one of the shortest voyages of her career. She is pictured enroute from her New York pier to a berth in Staten Island, where she will remain for duration of the war. The French Line's Normandie and the British Queen Mary remain in their Manhattan berths. (Central Press)

As Most Mothers Do Rub chest, throat, and back thoroughly with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. Then spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth. Right away VapoRub goes to work to relieve the misery.

VapoRub brings double relief because of its double action. It acts both as a stimulating poultice and a medicated vapor. Its poultice action penetrates the surface skin; its soothing vapors are breathed direct to irritated air passages. Try it. You'll find that often by morning most of the misery of the VICKS

Nazi Ship on Raiding Career

The German steamship Windhuk (above), 16,662 tons, reported to have jumped her internment at Lobito, in Portuguese West Africa, was originally intended for service as a sea raider when she was built in 1936. It is said the liner had been outfitted to carry full raider equipment and that she had been disguised to resemble a British ship when she fled Lobito.
